Saffrey Brown (left), general manager of the JN Foundation, and Dane Richardson (right), chief executive officer of the Digicel Foundation, celebrate with Deaf Can Coffee's Fabian Jackson (second left), Andreen Smith (centre) and Carlyle Gabbidon. Deaf Can Coffee is a social enterprise operating on the premise that the deaf can do anything and, as such, seeks to provide empowerment and employment opportunities for the deaf community. Serving up special coffee brews to a growing clientele, Deaf Can Coffee is gearing up to use the cash award to invest in a mobile unit, as well as to offset other expenses associated with carrying out their social mission to effect change within the deaf community.
